

Freemasonry and the NWO

By Lance Owen Jan/2012

Freemasonry 101

A few years ago, my father passed on. As per his wishes, he was cremated and buried in the family plot near his parents. Before that, he showed me the spot where he was to be buried. I thought it was odd, because he wasn't a spiritual type. He once told me, "there is no money in religion". The cemetery where he is buried is beautiful. The problem is, that when I come to pay my respects, I'll have to look at the nearby tombstone of a Mason. It has the (hideous) square and compass symbol on it.

I began a study of Freemasonry back in the early 90's. I read a few books that exposed Freemasonry at that time, such as, "The Brotherhood", by Stephen Knight. It is obvious to me, that it is an evil organization. There are millions of Masons in North America. Rarely do we read about the Masons in the papers, or hear about them on TV. I found out that many famous people, were, or are Masons. Why is this so? Even Roy Rogers was a Mason. He was a childhood hero to me. I thought that this subject was worth investigating.

After I did some basic reading, I asked my father about the Masons. He worked in a factory for much of his life. At this factory, in the lunchroom, there were basically three groups: the engineers, the Masons, and everyone else. He was in the "everyone else" category. One time, he was tapped, and asked if he wanted to go to a lodge meeting. He said no.

He told me that his good friend Harold was looking for a job at one time. Harold's brother, who was the Police Chief in a small southern Ontario town, said that he could get Harold a job as a cop in another small town, if he became a Mason. Harold said no, so he didn't get the job. My father also told me that one of my uncles was a Mason. He became one in order to get a job with the county, as far as I know.

My mother passed on several years before my father. I asked her shortly before she died, "Was Grampa a Freemason"? She said no! After she died, we found proof, in her papers, that her father was a Scottish Rite Mason. He was a policeman or a detective for a long time. I was upset about what my mother had said. I can only think that she was not happy speaking about the Masons. In her jewelry box was a co-mason ring. It is the ring of female Freemasonry, which has an upside-down five-pointed star symbol on it. Was it her ring? Or did it belong to her mother? She may have been involved in a quasi-masonic group known as, "The Daughters of Rebecca", which is a kind of female, "Odd Fellows". The "Odd Fellows" (weird name), another fraternity, were also known as the poor man's Freemasonry. One of my great grandfathers belonged to that group.

A friend of mine is a lawyer. He wanted to get a job at a bank one time. He told me that he was thinking about becoming a Freemason. At that point I was worried, as I knew quite a bit about Freemasonry. I warned him against joining. But he, being an atheist type, couldn't see any problem. For some reason, he was black balled. So he didn't get the job. It was obvious to me, that being a Mason was a prerequisite for a job at that bank, at least in his field.

Many, perhaps most, police officers and bankers are Masons, especially at the higher levels. Also, so are many lawyers, judges, politicians, military people, businessmen and so on. See Stephen Knight's book.

But what is the point? Freemasonry, like other secret societies, (The Skull and Bones, the Jesuits, and the Mafia, for example) is hierarchical. Many are controlled by the few, from the top. How do the controllers do it? They promise favors. Become a Mason, and you'll get a promotion, business contacts, money, power, or you can ingratiate yourself with your boss, if he happens to be a Mason. They'll say it's like a club. Come out every Tuesday and have a beer with us, that sort of thing. If you don't, you might lose your job. A lot of Masons just go along with it, to be part of the group. Others want something for nothing.

They swear horrible secret oaths, which include helping out their brother Masons in times of need. The Masons do degree work. Most Masons are low level, first, second or third degree. The oaths required to advance further are horrific and according to some, include swearing an oath to commit murder or treason to help a fellow Mason if necessary. I have to mention here, that it is thanks to some brave men that we know about these Masonic oaths and rituals. They escaped from that Satanic organization, thanks to God.

Most low level Masons never learn the big secret of Freemasonry, which is that, at the higher levels, Masons worship Lucifer. Albert Pike wrote this in his book, Morals and Dogma. He was the top Freemason in America in the late 1800's. He is said to have predicted; WW1, WW2, and WW3!

If one tries to expose the Masonic oaths, rituals, (Jewish) code words, or hand signs, they can be murdered, as Captain William Morgan was. He wrote a book on the secret Masonic rituals in the early 1800's. His murder led to the founding of an anti-Masonic party in America. Also murdered, was the Freemason founder of the Mormon Church, Joseph Smith, who also betrayed the secrets of Freemasonry. The Mormon rituals are very similar to the Masonic rituals (see William Schnoebelen).

These days, no one talks about the Masons. People are ignorant. They can't see the threat, when politicians become secret society members. A good example, is the case of Dubya vs. Kerry. They were both Skull and Bonesmen. Knowing this, can any thinking American believe that America is a democracy? A hundred years ago, Mandell House (Wilson's controller) said that we (Masons) control both parties.

At the lower levels, Masons in a lodge may help each other out. I mean by doing something illegal. A contractor may need the help of a brother (civil servant) to get changes in a bylaw so that a job can get done. That is illegal. But that is low-level evil. What if brother Masons conspire to fix a judicial decision, or a political race? Or, what if there is a conspiracy to commit treason in a Masonic Lodge?

A Brief History of Freemasonry

There is a whole confusing mythology that was made up to promote Freemasonry. Many Mason's believe this nonsense or just don't want to think about it.

Stonemason guilds were formed several hundred years ago to keep the secrets of their craft, which was knowledge used to build cathedrals. Some aristocratic types realized that these secret groups could be hijacked to promote their political objectives. That, in my view, is what happened in all countries in Europe. These guilds had secret oaths, passwords, handshakes, handsigns, and so on.

There are several groups, which claim to be Freemasons. Examples are; the Scottish Rite, the Grand Orient, the Royal Arch and so on. There are conflicts between these groups. But, they all have the same NWO objective.

The Masons like to compare themselves to the Knights Templar. That means, Knights of the Temple. That Temple, would be, Solomon's Temple. Those Knights were supposedly charged with protecting Christian Pilgrims travelling to Jerusalem. But there were only a few of them. The myth is that the Templars found something underneath the "so called", Temple Mount in Jerusalem, and brought it back to Europe, thus establishing a banking empire. There is speculation, that they discovered a mass of gold under the mount. But there were only a few of those Templars. How could they become so incredibly wealthy? I'll speculate here, that what they found were symbols, which they could somehow divine.

A group of Templar knights were rounded up by the King of France in the 1200's. They were tortured as witches and burned at the stake. The King wanted to know how they became so wealthy, among other things. One of these Templar knights was Jacques de Molay. At that time, so the story goes, some Templars escaped to Scotland, and formed the Scottish Rite branch of Freemasonry. The de Molay order is one of the youth wings of Freemasonry. Bill Clinton was a member. So was Bill Cooper (author of "Behold A Pale Horse").

There are other myths that the Freemasons hold dear. Some of these revolve around Solomon's Temple. Every lodge is supposed to represent that Temple. Most low-level Masons have no idea why. These lodges may have a checkerboard floor. The lodge generally has no windows or darkened windows, so people can't see inside. I've seen some of these lodges myself.

Now why would there be no windows? I suspect that something really strange happens when a new Mason is initiated. Newbies are told to remove metallic items from their person for some reason. They are then blind-folded. A rope is tied around their neck and so on. They are then told to say a Masonic oath. At the low levels, the oath goes something like this; “I swear to keep the secrets of Freemasonry and help out a brother Mason if asked. If I don’t, I’ll have my intestines torn out, to be eaten by the vultures”. Crazy or what? Then, they are stabbed in the chest with a sharp object (a compass?). That must be kind of scary.

Masonic Symbols

Most people would be surprised to learn that many common phrases are Masonic. Examples are; double cross, two faced (Janus), Mayday (May 1st), Friday the 13th (when de Molay was burned at the stake) and so on.

Common Masonic symbols are; the skull and cross-bones (also a symbol for poison), the square and compass (a hexagram in disguise), the two-headed eagle, the five-pointed star (right-side up or up-side down), the hexagram, and so on. The numbers three, thirteen, and thirty-three are also very important. Other everyday Masonic symbols and names are: IBM, Maxwell House, and Captain Morgan Rum. There are many others.

The symbol IBM is for Jacques DeMolay, aka, Iacobus Burgundus Molensis. Like all Masonic (Illuminati) symbols, it has a double meaning. Maxwell House is the name of the hotel where the KKK was formed, by (Mason) Albert Pike, the confederate general, who, incredibly, is buried and revered in Washington DC! Another symbol I’ve seen recently is Captain Morgan Rum at the liquor store. It’s a Seagrams product. How many people know, that the Bronfman’s (gangster owners of Seagrams) made their money by running booze across the Canadian border during the prohibition? They are Masons. The Masons murdered Captain Morgan for betraying the secrets of Freemasonry. The double cross is seen on the Union Jack. It is a negated cross, certainly an anti-Christian symbol. The five-pointed star represents Sirius. Freemasons worship this star. The “so-called”, “Star of David”, or the hexagram, is also Masonic. It is a Sun symbol (for the Sun god), or at the same time it may represent the unification of the male and female principles. I saw a hexagram with a Sun symbol inside it at a Masonic website.

I mentioned earlier that Albert Pike is buried in Washington. Think about that, especially, if you are an American Civil War buff. That war, like WW1 and WW2, was contrived. Masons were involved in those wars on both sides. In the case of the American Civil War, it’s obvious from the fact that (Southerner Confederate) Pike is buried in Washington.

The five-pointed star is a Masonic/witchcraft symbol. An upside down, five-pointed star is on the ring of co-masons. I was watching late-night TV one time. An old Roy Rogers (Mason) show was on. His wife, Dale Evans wore a blouse with a huge upside down five-pointed star on it. I've seen the five-pointed star on the ring of someone who worked at my bank. I asked him about it. He told me that it was his fraternity ring. He went to UBC. Look at the Congressional Medal of Honor, and other military medals. They are often upside down five pointed stars. Once, a witch tried to hex me, by waving her hand around. She had a five-pointed star ring on her finger and a hexagram symbol on her bracelet. The seven-pointed star can be seen on the Australian flag and on police cars here in Vancouver.

The double-headed eagle symbol is also Masonic. It is a very ancient symbol, going back to Sumerian times. That symbol was on the uniforms of the Russian hockey team at the recent Olympics here in Vancouver. That symbol was revived for some reason in Russia in the 90's. Curiously, it was used in Czarist Russia. This symbol is also used by Muslim Albanians (see the Albanian flag) and Orthodox Serbs! Hard to believe, but true. But you can understand this, when you realize that the double-headed eagle symbol, is a Masonic (NWO) symbol. That symbol is also on a well-known American Masonic website. Mason, Buzz Aldrin, took a Masonic flag to the moon. It had the double-headed eagle symbol on it. He also did some Masonic ritual before the "Eagle" landed. Most Americans and Russians would be shocked to learn that at the high levels, Masonic (NWO) forces rule both countries. The idea now, is to drag America down to the level of Russia.

Take a look at the U.N. symbol. The planet Earth is divided into 33 regions. The Earth is surrounded by the Wreath of Bacchus. This symbol was once used as the symbol for Scottish Rite Freemasonry. For Star Trek fans, a similar symbol is on the flag of the United Federation of Planets.

The Masons like to bait Christians with the number 666. Certain logos have this symbol hidden within them, but sometimes the symbolism is more overt. When the price of gold rose dramatically several years ago, the price was "fixed" at 666.00 dollars at least twice. Banksters in London do the fixing, at the end of every day, and also at the end of the week. Recently, after of the death of Steve Jobs, I found out that one of the original Apple Computers had a price of $666. I wonder, at this point, if he became a Mason or a member of some other secret society. In the early 80's he had an apartment in Manhattan. He was well connected somehow, even at a young age. Check out his last words.

Freemasonry and Witchcraft

I have to mention the connection between Freemasonry and witchcraft. Just briefly, they are the same thing. That is, Devil worship. Many researchers would have trouble believing this, because they have not taken the time to do some reading on both subjects. If they did, they would soon learn that the symbols and rituals for both are very similar.

In the case of Freemasons (really slavemasons) they make a pact with the Devil and lose part of their soul when they take those Masonic oaths. I believe that most Christian theologians would agree with that. See what Jesus said about swearing oaths.

Can these people be detected? It's subtle, but I say, look into their eyes. If they make with the crazy eyes, get away from them. The witch who tried to hex me had a wild-eyed look at the time. I have seen this a few other times too. Certain politicians have the eye problem too. You can tell from photos in the papers.

Remember the Son of Sam, David Berkowitz? I remember seeing him on TV and his eyes were very dark. A friend of mine pointed this out independently at that time. This friend said that Berkowitz had the eyes of a dog. Berkowitz was associated with the "Process Church", a group of witches. I saw him on TV, years later, and he had normal eyes, with bright blue irises. I saw a similar phenomenon, while watching the late Peter Jennings on the News. His normally bright blue irises turned black on TV. I'm not sure if he was a Mason, but I can believe that he was in some other secret society. The Bilderbergers perhaps?

Famous Freemasons

Ronald Reagan was a Freemason. That's what they'll say. Seems pretty harmless, right? He was basically handed the 33rd degree on a platter. Window dressing. The American founding fathers were also, mostly Masons. This is cause for concern. They signed the Declaration of Independence. I wonder now if they made a pact with the Devil. The street layout for Washington D.C. has much Masonic/Satanic symbolism in it. A friend of mine said a couple of decades ago, that America is going the way of the Roman Empire. I think now, that he was right.

The Masons won't tell you about the real nasty ones, like John Paul Bernardo, the Master Mason, who tortured and raped young women near Toronto in the 90's. Also, there is good evidence that Jack the Ripper was a Mason too. I'll let the reader do some research on that. Adam Weishaupt was a Mason. He was a Jewish convert to Catholicism, who created the Illuminati in 1776 in Ingolstadt Bavaria. Ingolstadt, curiously, is where Frankenstein created his monster, in Mary Shelley's novel. I suspect that Shelly had some inside info on the Illuminati, which was most upsetting to her. I speculate here, that the Illuminati/Masonic scheme is to reengineer the human species.

Winston Churchill was a Mason. There is a pic of him on the net with a bunch of Druids. The Druids burned people alive didn't they? And Churchill was, in part, responsible for the holocaust at Dresden. They even named the Nagasaki bomb after him (Fat Man).

Aleister Crowley was a high level Mason too. I wonder what he meant, when he wrote, "There is something in the blood". But anyway, he recommended the V, for victory sign to his friend Churchill. One day, I hope to find out what that hand sign really means.

Michael Baigent is also a high level Mason. He co-authored a book entitled, "Holy Blood, Holy Grail". The thesis of this book, is that Jesus survived the crucifixion and went to France, married and had children. What nonsense. Baigent will surely be promoting the antichrist when he comes.

The NWO endgame

Most people don't even know what the acronym NWO means. If they do know that it means "New World Order", they probably don't think about what that phrase really means. This is by design. The media don't want people thinking about this issue.

The "New World Order", is all about creating a one-world government, with a capital in Jerusalem, with a one-world religion, a one-world currency, a one-world army, and a Supreme (one-world) Court. Jewish Zionists are certainly behind this movement (see the comments of James P. Warburg and David Ben Gurion on this issue). We can't let these creatures get away with this.

Unfortunately, they have enlisted the support of certain fanatical Christian Zionists. All of these Zionists want to rebuild Solomon's Temple, on the "so-called", Temple Mount, in East Jerusalem. I say, "so-called", because the Arabs do not believe that the Temple Mount, was the site of the second temple. Incredibly, the Catholic Church is also interested in rebuilding the Temple too. In order to do this, two Mosques on the mount will have to be destroyed.

From my net reading, I've learned that the stone for the Temple has been quarried in America (Dolphin). I saw a picture of one of the Bronfman's (Edgar?) standing by a model of the Temple complex, which is to be built, by these extremist Zionists. It was in a Toronto newspaper in the early 90's. I didn't see the significance at that time, but I do now.

Many Christian researchers believe that the NWO Anti-Christ will take his place within this new Temple. The Rabbis will treat him like the Messiah. The anti-Christ is believed to have been born. There is speculation on who he is. I speculate here, that the anti-Christ will come from one of the European Royal Families. This NWO government will be a disaster for humanity IF we let it come into being.

End.
